

GeoExplain workflow: from data to where features matter

Key idea: SHAP values are computed for every observation or grid cell and written back to the same location, so the explanation itself becomes a map.

SHAP describes model behaviour (association), not causal effects.